

Brittle Star

“A classic small press magazine
dedicated to new poetry” – Wayne Burrows, Staple, 2007

Brittle Star is an unsubsidised, not for profit magazine dedicated to publishing new poetry, short literary fiction and articles. Brittle Star has a growing reputation and gives a platform to writers at the beginning of their careers.

Subscribe today and for the modest sum of £13 for four issues, you'll get fine, fresh poems, quirky fiction, intelligent interviews and essays delivered to your door!

Subscribe to Brittle Star

- £7.00 for two issues
 - £13.00 for four issues
 - £19.00 for six issues
- Includes post and packing
- Silver Star: £20 (two issues)
 - Gold Star: £30 (four issues)

Please make cheques payable to Brittle Star

Name:

Address:

.....
.....

Postcode:

Email:

Starting from issue

I am happy to have my details added to the Brittle Star database.*

*These will be used to send you information about Brittle Star launches and readings and other literary organisations; they will not be sold or shared with any third party.

Become a Gold Star and your donation of £30 or more will ensure you receive a subscription of four issues, invitations to our launches and warm, golden glow of knowing you're supporting talented writers.

Become a Silver Star with a donation of £20 to £29 and receive a subscription of two issues, invitations to our launches and the soft, silvery shimmer of knowing that you're helping new voices sing!

Return to: Brittle Star, PO Box 56108, London E17 0AY